New York: Prime Minister Narendra Modi today held separate meetings with his British counterpart David Cameron and French President Francois Hollande during which a host of bilateral, regional and global issues were discussed.

Modi, who earlier in the day arrived here from San Jose on the last-leg of his US visit, first met Cameron to begin a day of hectic parleys and discussions.

The Prime Minister later met Hollande. Microsoft co-founder Bill Gates also joined Modi and Hollande for discussions.

"Look who dropped by! Missed in Silicon Valley, the original tech entrepreneur @BillGates says hello to PM & President," External Affairs Ministry Spokesperson Vikas Swarup tweeted along with pictures of Modi, Hollande and Gates engaged in discussions.

"Connecting with a nation (France) that has been a valued friend for years and years....," the PMO tweeted.
