Washington: National Security Adviser Ajit Doval has called on his US counterpart Susan Rice at the White House during which the two officials discussed bilateral and regional issues in addition to reviewing the counter terrorism cooperation between the two countries.

Doval is in the US to attend the Nuclear Security Summit this week which is being hosted by US President Barack Obama on March 31 and April 1.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who would lead the Indian delegation, is scheduled to arrive here tomorrow.

The two National Security Advisers are understood to have reviewed the progress made on the decisions taken by Obama and Modi during their meetings last year in New York on the sidelines of the UN General Assembly, and in Paris on the sidelines of the summit on climate change.

Doval is scheduled to meet Secretary of State John Kerry at the Foggy Bottom headquarters of the State Department today.
