New Delhi: A strong earthquake of 6.8 magnitude today struck the Hindukush mountain region in Afghanistan, ripples of which were felt in Pakistan and several parts of Northern India.

The earthquake was centred at a depth of 236 km, Dawn online quoted Pakistan Meteorological Department as saying.

Tremors were felt in Lahore, Islamabad, Rawalpindi, Peshawar, Swat Valley, Chitral, and Pakistan-administered Kashmir.

According to J L Gautam, Operations Head of National Centre for Seismology, "The earthquake measuring 6.8 on the Richter scale at a depth of 190 km hit Hindukush mountain region at 3:58 PM."

The quake also had a impact on Northern India as it shook the the National Capital and surrounding regions at 4:01 PM today. Strong tremors were felt in parts of Delhi and NCR triggering a sense of panic among people, many of whom rushed out of their homes for safety.

Delhi Metro services were affected for a brief period in the wake of the tremor and resumed later.

"Service were halted briefly after the quake but we resumed operations soon after," a Delhi Metro official said.

There were no immediate reports of any casualty. In north India, tremors were also felt in Jammu and Kashmir, Punjab, Chandigarh and Haryana, besides Delhi.

Jammu and Kashmir's former Chief Minister Omar Abdullah took to Twitter to wish for the well-being of people.

Â Â Â Hope these tremors don't result in any loss of life or serious loss of property. #prayers
