Iran indirectly blames Saudi Arabia for twin terror attacks, says 'spilled blood of innocent will not re

08/06/2017 07:41 by admin

Tehran: Iranâ€™s powerful Revolutionary Guard has indirectly blamed Saudi Arabia for the twin terrorist attacks in the capital city of Tehran.

Photo: AP. Security personnel take position in front of Iran's parliament

In a statement, the Revolutionary Guard stopped short of alleging direct Saudi involvement in the terror attacks at Iranâ€™s parliament building and the shrine of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, but pointed out that the attacks took place about one week after U.S. President Donald Trump travelled to Saudi Arabia and strongly asserted American support for Riyadh.

Calling it â€œmeaningfulâ€•, the statement added that Saudi Arabia â€œconstantly supports takfiri terroristsâ€• including the Islamic State group and the IS claim of responsibility â€œreveals their (Saudi Arabiaâ€™s) hand in this barbaric action.â€•

The statement concluded by saying that the â€œspilled blood of the innocent will not remain unavenged.â€•

At least 12 people were killed and dozens more injured in the twin assaults on the Iranian capital.

- (With AP inputs)