

Woman, nephew murder her husband to cover up affair, dump body in 40-feet-well

20/02/2019 21:31 by admin

The wife and nephew of a landowner in Haryana's Bhiwani have been accused of murdering the landowner and dumping his body inside a 40-feet-deep well. The accused were reportedly romantically involved.

The accused reportedly dumped the victim's body inside a 40-feet-deep well (Representative Image) | Photo Credit: BCCL

Bhiwana: Shocking developments have emerged in the disappearance of a 31-year-old landowner in Haryana's Bhiwani district. A father of three children, Rammehar went missing a little over 50 days ago from his residence in Bhiwani. Following a police investigation into the matter, police arrested Rammehar's wife and his nephew in connection with his alleged murder.

The matter came to light only on February 1 when the victim's wife approached local police and claimed that her husband had been missing since December 30. She told officials that he was last seen going to the Bhiwani court on the day of his disappearance. A case of missing persons was registered in this regard.

However, the victim's sister approached police on February 12 and accused her son and her brother's wife of having a romantic relationship. The sister further claimed that her son and Rammehar's wife killed the victim and buried his body deep inside a 40-feet well. The victim's sister claimed that Rammehar's wife had sent all of her personal belongings to her paternal home which indicated that she might have something to do with her husband's disappearance.

On the basis of her complaint, officials with the Tosham and Kairu police stations along with a team of medical examiners reached the spot and began digging the well to locate the victim's body on Monday afternoon. As a result, they also arrested 22-year-old Mandeep, the victim's nephew who has been accused of being romantically involved with his wife.

- Mirror Now