West Ham supporting sports show host says yes to long-time Swedish chef boyfriend Robert Sandberg's proposal.

Porn legend and sports show host Mia Khalifa has left thousands broken hearted after revealing the she is officially off the market.

The gorgeous Lebanese-American star said yes to her Swedish chef boyfriend Robert Sandberg's proposal on Thursday.

And the happy couple could not wait to share their news on social media “ although Sandberg’s big moment nearly went so wrong.

He wrote on Instagram: “We went to Chicago this weekend and had a wonderful dinner at Smyth. I proposed to @miakhalifa and she said YES!

“The ring was hidden in a bowl of dried ingredients and came out as a “new serving”.

“Mia was too curious and too eager to taste so she started to eat the inedible ingredients. I told her not to do it and then I put the ring on the finger. I love you so much (heart emoji).

The gorgeous Lebanese-born American star said yes to the Swedish chef’s proposal on Thursday

“Thank you @chefjohnshields and team for a really good night and for making this happen.”

Khalifa would later confirm her engagement via her own social media count.

Alongside a snap of her and Sandberg, she wrote: “Thank you a million times over for the entire team at @smythchicago for helping @robertsandberg propose this trip and dinner was supposed to celebrate him getting his visa!

“Robert has planted the seed so deep in my mind for so long that he hates restaurant proposals so I never, EVER, saw this coming. I love you all so much! Thank you!”

It will be the second time Khalifa, once Pornhub’s most-watched star, walks down the aisle.

She married her highschool sweetheart in 2011 but separated from him in three years later.

The pair got divorced in 2016.

The West Ham supporting Khalifa met Sandberg in Copenhagen, Denmark where he works for Michelin-star restaurant

Kong Hans Kaelder.
