The organisers claim guests will be allocated two 'beautiful' women each day - but can swap if that's not enough for them.

A CONTROVERSIAL party island where men are offered "unlimited" sex with up to 100 models is set to welcome punters back this summer.

Blokes can book a place for Â£4,600 - and the organisers claim guests will be allocated two "beautiful" women each day.

If you are after an uneventful holiday, this is clearly not for you

In a promo video for the trip, women are seen dancing as money is thrown at them

And they will be able to swap with other revellers if two aren't enough.

The event - dubbed "creepy" and "disgusting" by critics - will run from July 4-7 this year.

The "couple friendly" party will take place in Nevada, US, after the previous orgies were held in the Caribbean.

A statement on the event's website said: "Enjoy the company of 100 beautiful girls, in our alcohol and marijuana friendly environment.

"The girls' mission is to please you and make you feel like a king.

"If you have any specific fantasies, let us or the girls know, and weâ€™ll turn your fantasies into reality!

"Enjoy breathtaking surroundings with your girls at the one and only Sex Island.

"There are 50 tickets for 50 guests, each ticket includes the company of 2 beautiful girls - each day for an unlimited amount of sex during the 4-day trip.

"Thereâ€™ll be 100 girls available for you. All of our girls are tested and free of any sexual diseases.

"We have a strict condom policy. At any moment you can switch girls with the other 50 guests."

One partygoer from last year told his wife he was going on a work trip.

He told The Sun: "The yacht was full of beautiful Latina women, dancing and drinking. As we got on we were handed drinks and people started to loosen up.

â€œEach man had to choose the two girls who would keep them company during the entire trip.

"Just 15 minutes into the trip I was already on a bed with them."
