The mum-of-five found herself being ridiculed by mean critics after the pictures emerged but she has now hit back.

Writing in her weekly column for new! magazine, Kerry said: "I know everyone's going mad about me scoffing a burger in my bikini but sorry, would you prefer it if it was a line of coke?"

Only last week, Kerry admitted cocaine was once her "best friend" when she was gripped by addiction.

She has been sober for nine years after kicking the habit.

Kerry had jetted out to the Greek island of Mykonos earlier this month to attend a fitness camp with her 17-year-old daughter Molly.

Another added: "As classy as every. How embarrassing for her children."

But Kerry hasn't let the mean words knock her spirits.

Writing in new!, she added: "It hasn't affected my confidence and it's not the reason I'm back down the gym - it's just time to get back in the routine."

New pictures of Kerry relaxing in Greece have now emerged and they show her looking happy on the beach while wearing a blue sequinned bikini.

Kerry recently admitted she was "proud" of her body, despite going on to enrol in a fitness retreat.

Taking to Instagram, she wrote: "So some pics have popped up online of me!!!

"Yes I have put some weight on but am happy!!

"l'm proud of my body!! I might not look sexy but I felt it!!"

Kerry added: "The main thing is my head is in the best place it's been in years and that's what matters!!"
