'Fearless' Colombian model casually makes a hand bra after her top comes off on catwalk

06/09/2019 16:50 by admin

This is the moment a super-calm model styles it out when her skimpy top flies off on the catwalk. Lina Daniela Daza was determined not to let her very public wardrobe malfunction put her off her stride.

Lina was determined not to let her wardrobe malfunction ruin the show

She was appearing at a fashion show at a hotel in Cucuta in Colombia

The true pro showed real composure to fashion her own "hand bra" to save her from further embarrassment.

Her quick-thinking has now been praised by those that have seen the cheeky clip in her home country.

Fearless Lina was appearing at a fashion show at the Hotel Casino Internacional in Cucuta in Colombia.

In the footage, the former beauty queen is seen entering the catwalk in a skimpy silver outfit before her top pops off and she is forced to cover her boobs with both hands.

Sporting a cheeky smile, Lina continues modelling the outfit without further incident.

The stunning brunette said on social media later: â€œToday, something occurred that had never happened before, a new experience!

â€œMy bra fell off in the middle of the catwalk and my reactions were instinctive!â€•

She also included a photo of her covering her breasts with the message: â€œIn that moment, a lot of people got to see my little boobies!â€•

According to reports, the audience was more than impressed with the modelâ€™s reaction and applauded her professionalism for continuing the routine.

Lina later posted to her fans that those in the crowds got a good view of her boobs

The audience was more than impressed with the modelâ€™s quick thinking

- The Sun