The Spanish actress was celebrating TV show Vida Perfecta winning for Best Comedy

The 36-year-oldâ€™s Vida Perfecta TV show won the gong for Best Comedy TV show at Spainâ€™s equivalent to the Golden Globes.

Celia was wearing a strapless ivory dress which clearly was not fastened correctly.

And to make matters worse, the star was not wearing a bra underneath her evening gown.

First launched by the Spanish Film Academy in 2014, the Feroz Awards recognise excellence in movies and television.

The big winner of the evening was Pedro Almodovarâ€™s Pain and Glory â€“ which stars Antonio Banderas and borrows chunks from the directorâ€™s own life as a filmmaker living in Madrid.

Double Oscar winner Almodovar scooped Best Director, Best Drama, and Best Screenplay while Banderas won Best Actor.

Julieta Serrano, who played Banderasâ€™s mother, was awarded Best Supporting Actress.
