Elizabeth Hurley danced on the beach in a fun Instagram video posted on Sunday while soaking up the sun at the Cheval Blanc Randheli resort in the Maldives.

She's been showcasing her luxury swimwear line one bikini snap at a time.

And Elizabeth Hurley proved herself to be the very best model for her brand as she danced on the beach in a fun Instagram video posted on Sunday while soaking up the sun at the Cheval Blanc Randheli resort in the Maldives.

The actress, 54, looked incredible as she slipped into a tiny turquoise bikini from her eponymous swimwear collection while twirling along the shoreline.

The former The Royals star teamed her skimpy swimwear with a bold aqua and bold kaftan while giving her followers a glimpse at her exotic surroundings.

The cover up, which is also from Elizabeth's collection, was left open to display her chiseled abs.

In the playful video, the mother-of-one gracefully swung around a palm tree before heading off towards the crystal blue waters.

Elizabeth danced on the white sandy beach while her chestnut tresses were left in loose waves.
