Heidi Klum showed off her incredible figure on Saturday, posing topless to water her garden in a sexy snap posted to Instagram.

With her wet hair slicked back and throwing a seductive look at the camera, the star, 47, wore nothing but a pair of tiny snake skin print bikini bottoms for the photo.

Heidi went on to share another sexy black and white snap of herself posing in a lace bra.

The America's Got Talent judge is no stranger to baring all.

In August she posed naked behind a curtain for a photo taken by husband Tom Kaulitz.

The model married Tom, 31, in 2019.

In August, the AGT judge appeared furious when a contestant called her a "tramp" and implied that she was "loose" as part of his comedy routine.

Comic hopeful Usama Siddiquee said: "Club music is so fun that the DJ could say anything he wants in the beat, as long as he adds a beat drop, he will be okay."

He then went on to make dub-step electronic sounds with his mouth, while repeating "women shouldn't vote" and "get back to the kitchen!"

The AGT contestant continued: "When that beat drops, so does feminism. I'll give you an example right now!"

"Heidi, if I called you a tramp you'd be like 'how dare you?' Right? But if I was like 'Tramp, Tramp, Tramp,'" he said to a beat before he added, 'then you'd be like, 'well I do get loose on occasion.'"

The judge appeared livid as she pierced her lips, clenched her jaw as he made comments at her expense.

When it came time for the judges to address the contestant, Heidi said that the entire act made her "uncomfortable."

She added: "I don't know. I guess being called a tramp was probably my least uncomfortable about the whole thing."

Fellow judge Sofia Vergara was also critical of the act and said: "I was laughing and then I was like â€œShould I not be laughing? Should I feel guilty?"

"I think you took a risky approach to this performance."

Howie Mandel said: "Iâ€™ll be honest - itâ€™s really really tough for comedy.

"Iâ€™m not sure if you got the response you wanted judging by the faces of these two," the judge said as he pointed to Heidi and Sofia.

Usama was slammed by fans of the reality competition for making a series of "misogynistic" jokes directed towards the Project Runway host.
