

The Undertaker apologise to Roman Reigns after his WWE WrestleMania 'retirement' match

21/09/2020 17:04 by admin

WWE legend APOLOGISED to Roman Reigns for his performance in his 'retirement match'.

The Undertaker has apologised for his performance in the WrestleMania defeat to Roman Reigns

WWE legend The Undertaker APOLOGISED to Roman Reigns for his performance in his WWE WrestleMania 33 'retirement match'.

The Deadman suffered only his second defeat in 25 at the showpiece event and then seemingly quit.

Fans were in tears as The Undertaker, real name Mark Calaway, laid down his hat and trench coat in the ring.

But of course it was a short-lived spell out - he returned at WrestleMania 34 to defeat John Cena.

It means Reigns and The Beast Brock Lesnar are the only men to have beaten The Undertaker at WrestleMania.

And in a preview clip for The Last Ride documentary seen by talkSPORT, The Undertaker is seen apologising for his performance to Reigns.

It came after 'Taker's triumph against Cena.

Seeing The Undertaker backstage, Reigns said: "You look great man!"

Undertaker replied: "I felt so bad about last year. I just want you to know, that bothers me."

Roman Reigns then added: No, no" before 'Taker interrupts: "I didnâ€™t have it, you know that."

- The Sun