For just over Â£5 a month, Coffey advertises "uncensored content, private chat and more".

With over one million followers on Instagram, the surfer has outgrown her reputation on the waves.

Appearing in World Surf Leagueâ€™s qualifying series as a promising youngster, she could not quite make the big time in the sport.

And she is not the only one of her family to open an over-18s website after sister Holly-Daze created an OnlyFans style site of her own.

The four Coffey sisters - Bonnie-Lou, 19, Ruby-Lee, 20, Holly-Daze, 22, and Ellie-Jean, 25, are famous for sharing cheeky snaps on Instagram.

Ellie-Jean and Holly have even been nicknamed the 'Kardashians of Australian surfing'.

The website opening comes after Coffey fell into depression after discovering her boyfriend cheating on her, according to news.au.

She wrote online last month: "On the 5th of July 2019 my entire world shattered into a million pieces and I genuinely didnâ€™t think I was going to be able to get back on my feet, I thought I was done.

"I genuinely didnâ€™t think I was going to be able to get back on my feet, I thought I was done.

"My brother and my father took care of me every single day when I cried pretty much from the moment I woke up, this went on for about three of the most excruciating months of my life.

"Eventually slowly the pain started to ease and my happiness returned better than ever."
