A bizarre video has captured the moment a woman's top fell down as she stole a parcel from a stranger's doorstep in broad daylight.

The thief flashed the homeowner's Ring doorbell camera as she pinched the package in Houston, Texas.

The security camera filmed the woman as she ran up to the porch and grabbed a recently-delivered package.

The mystery woman's top slipped down as she dashed towards to the front door.

With her breasts exposed, the comical footage shows the brazen woman picking up the cardboard box and making a run for it, before speeding away in a car she had parked on the home's driveway.

The homeowner can be heard banging on the door from inside the house in a failed attempt to startle the woman and stop her.

The parcel contained a dress from Nordstrom and cops are investigating the theft, according to KHOU 11.

'SUSPECTS IN MIND'

Harris County police officer Alan Rosen said: "Weâ€™ve got some suspects in mind.

"We got a pretty clear look at the vehicle and of the person.

"A lot of people are getting packages delivered and ordering online as opposed to going out, so yeah, there were more package thieves that have been out there."

KHOU 11 reporter Janelle Bludau said on Twitter: "Package thieves will usually stop at nothing to claim their prize.

"For this woman, even losing her top did NOT slow her down.... and it was ALL caught on camera."

Another Twitter user shared the clip, with the caption: "Keep abreast of the latest news..."

It comes after a man was caught on camera stealing nearly $700 worth of medical equipment from a diabetic womanâ€™s porch in Tennessee.

The thief was caught on a Ring doorbell camera pinching the package just five minutes after it was delivered, FOX 13 reports.
