Melanie Sykes showcased her incredible figure as she returned to Venice, where she met her Italian toyboy lover Riccardo Simionato, 23, last year.

The television personality has jetted to the picturesque Italian city for her 51st birthday celebrations, after revealing she has decided to step back from television after a 30-year career.

Melanie certainly turned a few heads at the Lido in Venice on Thursday in a white tie-string bikini which accentuated her ample cleavage and washboard abs.

And it certainly proved to be a fabulous trip for the beauty as she reunited with handsome Riccardo, gushing in an Instagram post that the city and the gondolier 'have her heart'.

The former I'm A Celebrity star flaunted her surgically-enhanced cleavage in the tiny halterneck triangle bikini while the tie-string bottoms hugged her peachy derriere and long legs.

Shielding her eyes from the sun with black aviators, the TV presenter wore her hair down and opted for a make-up free look for her sunbathing session.

Melanie, who was joined by a female pal, was pictured slathering herself in sun cream as she prepared to whittle away the afternoon reading a book.
